CURRENCY MEASURE RESISTS ASSAULTS

Are Settled; Objections Are Swept Aside.

NOTABLE MEN PRESENT

Come Up for Passage Thursday.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16 .- The Demo eratic currency bill continued to resist the assaults of objecting Republicans in the house today in such successful fashion that before adjournment was taken tonight the bill was more than half completed and some of the most important provisions had been settled. It generally was agreed on both sides of the chamber that the measure would come up for passage Thursday. The principal debate today was over the provision creating the federal reserve board and that regulating rediscount of the commercial paper held by banks which became members of regional reserve banks. pers of regional reserve banks.

Amendments Defeated.

Attempts to enlarge the federal reserve board, to eliminate members of the cabinet from its composition and to change the salaries to be paid the civilian members all were defeated with expedition. The most important amendment brought out today was offered from the committee and agreed to with several Democrats voting against it. This would provide that member banks should have unlimited rediscount privileges with reserve banks. Another amendment adopted would provide that discounted paper should have a maturity of more than ninety days instead of sixty, as originally intended.

Professor O. M. W. Sprague of Har-

Professor O. M. W. Sprague of Har-vard. Newton D. Alling, vice president of the National Nassau bank of New York, and F. E. Marshal of St. Louis, formerly president of the Phenix Na-tional bank of New York, discussed the measure with the senate banking com-mittee.

mittee.

Senator Reed, a Democratic member of the committee, asserted during the hearings that he objected to long terms for members of the federal reserve board that would make the board unresponsive to a change in political conditions.

"I never will consent to creating a system supposed to be controlled by the public, which the people of the United States can't change at the next election," he said.

Alling Gives Views.

Mr. Alling expressed the opinion that the best form of government currency would be a general issue of federal notes secured by a great central gold reserve in the treasury vaults. He said the government could continue to issue currency on this reserve, far beyond its actual value, so long as the notes were issued only to meet avoual needs of commerce.

Assign only to hele commerce.

Mr. Marshall approved the general principles of the administration bill, but recommended many changes which he believed would make it more acceptable to the banking interests whose support he considered essential to the success of any new currency revision plan.

G. A. R. OPENS ITS BUSINESS SESSION

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 16.—Activities of veterans attending the Grand Army of the Republic's forty-seventh annual encampment here were increased today. Business sessions also were begun by several ailled organizations.

A novel feature of the annual parade tomorrow promises to be the participation of N. B. Forrest camp. United Confederate Veterans. This unexpected innovation resulted from a special invitation extended to the camp today by Commander-in-Chief Alfred B. Beers of the G. A. R., and accepted by Colonel L. T. Dickinson of the Forest camp. The Confederate veterans were invited to wear their gray uniforms.

have struck already

There is considerable suffering among the poorer classes, owing to the rise in the prices of foodstuffs.

The labor situation assumed a serious phase yesterday and the city is affected to a greater extent by this strike than any in its history. Yesterday 5000 builders went out after refusing to sign a declaration proposed by the employers that they would not join with or support the transport workers union, which started the original strike.

Two thousand farm laborers and 600 dock workers also are out. Four steamers loaded with grain are unable to discharge.

Food is running short and the poor are eginning to suffer. MYSTERIOUS WOMAN

Little Clue to Identity of Man Found Dead in New York Suburb

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—A gold watch, a silk handkerchief and clothing rotted by long exposure to the weather gave the police today little clue to the identity of the man whose body was found yesterday in a clump of bushes near the New York Central railroad tracks at Hastings-on-Hudson, a New York suburb. A hole in the man's skull and an improvised slingshot lying near the body left little doubt that he was murdered.

The police are seeking the woman whose behavior near the scene led to the discovery of the body. A path worn through the tall grass from the street to the thicket where the victim lay indicated that someone had made frequent visits to the spot since the man was killed a month ago.

MILLIONAIRE LEADS FIRE FIGHTERS BAND

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—Harvey Bissell, a millionaire, and son of the head of the Bissell carpet sweeping company of Grand Rapids, Mich, today led hundreds of fire fighters against a conflagration in the Sierra Madre mountains near La Crescenta, just back of Pasadena. The fire started Saturday and was thought to have been put out by Chief Forester Charlton and 350 men, but broke out afresh today. When a brisk breeze swept the fire toward the Bissell ranch, menacing it and a dozen nearby ranches, Bissell led the fight to check the flames.

The fire tonight is sweeping down the mountain side toward Sunland, in the Big Tejunga canyon. Here there is a big wash and it is hoped to stop the spread of the flames there. Property damage will reach $250,000.

Like others who are interested in the $300,000 project, Mr. Jensen no longer doubts the existence of bedrock entirely across the canyon, At the only points where bedrock was not exposed by the original excavations the great ledge of solid rock is now exposed to full view. Many persons are now visiting the damsite to satisfy themselves that the reports regarding bedrock are correct.

To facilitate a more complete investigation of the rock formations across the canyon, all the water is now being pumped from the big trench.

Dr. Samuel Fortier, chief engineer of the United States department of agriculture, will remain in the city for several days to complete his inspection of the site. returned to Ogden today after attending the meeting. He was accompanied by Mrs. Canfield.

It was shown during the discussions at the convention that there is a strong tendency to give the fire department of the city greater power for the enforcement of preventative measures such as the cleaning up of premises and to force the construction of buildings which are a fire menace to other property. Nearly two days of the convention was spent in discussing preventative measures.

The passing of the horse so far as fire apparatus is concerned was shown in the decision of 1500 fire chiefs, who went on record as favoring the motor equipment, according to Chief Canfield. The chiefs likewise decided in favor of the motor-driven pump as compared with the less modern steamer. The automobile pump recently purchased by Logan City and which was demonstrated in this city is one of the pleces of modern equipment favored by the chiefs.

At the close of the convention Chief and Mrs. Canfield visited several eastern cities. Including Washington, Baltimore and Norfolk, Va.

once. Now, where is that question of mental condition, within the meaning and scope of the extradition law to be determined, in New York or New Hampshire? When one sovereign state asks another sovereign state forcibit to seize a man and carry him across the line to another jurisdiction. Is any question closed?

The Court.—There is really no question for further discussion. But I will say that counsel on both sides would better examine cases which involve indictments and trials of issue of mental capacity and see how far they apply to similar questions involved in extradition proceedings, where one state is asking another to exercise its authority for removal to another jurisdiction.

"I withdraw the remark," said Jerome.

"I will say now," continued the court, "that unless you have a pretty strong case I advise you to save the trouble of raising the issue of bad faith."

Mr. Jerome sat down.

George Morris of Thaw's New Hampshire lawyers, addressed the court. He said in brief that the writ in Thaw's behalf had been obtained because under the New Hampshire statutes there was no recourse to the courts in case the governor honored the extradition warrant and the New York authorities cared to remove the fugitive instantly.

"We will agree," said Jerome, rising, "that we will use no undue haste in removing Thaw should his extradition be granted. We are willing and anxious to proceed in a legal and eminently fair manner."

Lets Matter Drop.

"Do you wish to press this question of bad faith?" inquired the court. Mr. Jerome paused a moment, then said that in view of the assurances from the other side, he would let the matter drop.
"Then," said Judge Aldrich, "the only question to be decided is whether this hearing shall go on or be suspended."
With this he began reading the rescript. In part it was as follows:

script. In part it was as follows:

This proceeding does not expressly involve the proposed extradition hearing before the state executive, yet it concerns it indirectly in the sense that if this hearing should go forward and if it should be determined here that the process under which the petitioner is held is not a constitutionally due process and that the restraint is therefore illegal, it doubtless would be contended that the result should be accepted as conclusive of the question of the right of extradition under the existing state process.

Rights Not Urgent.

The rights of the state of New York are not of such urgency as to justify summary and precipitate action here in advance of the usual and proper course of interstate extradition proceedings and the petitioner, having invoked federal protection for the purpose of saving his federal rights, yields to the idea of a postponement of this hearing to the end that extradition proceedings may go forward before the state executive in the ordinary and the usual way. This is a perfectly proper course for counsel to pursue. It is in perfect harmony with our system of federal and state inter-relations.

Generally speaking, the states have recognized the power of extradition as emanating from federal source. This peculiarity is so in respect to New Hampshire.

New Hampshire expressly recognizes the laws of the United States as the foundation of extradition.

It is obvious that some of the find-ings of the executive of the state might be considered as binding upon both the state and federal courts and it is equally obvious that questions might arise before the executive where its action would not be bind-ing upon either. It must be understood that it is open to the petitioner at any time to press his alleged constitutional right of an immediate hearing. It likewise is open to the parties representing the state of New York or the state of New Hampshire to move at any time for a hearing or for a dismissal of the writ.

In conclusion the court said that Thaw was subject to recommitment to state authority, to be held to ball or placed in the custody of suitable keepers, and he recommended Marshal Nute and Holman A. Drew, sheriff of Coos county, as custodians and they were selected.
